The Bravery
Time Won't
Let Me Go Single

The Bravery return with a downbeat but nonetheless fantastic new single. Time Won't Let Me Go is taken from their new LP The Sun and the Moon and is perhaps not the dance floor smash that Hounds Of Love was but it is still stirring stuff. Aching vocals, reminiscent of The Cure's Robert Smith lay over a bittersweet mid tempo melody that Noel Gallagher and Chris Martin can only dream of writing.

Chungking
Love Is Here
To Stay Single

Chungking's swaggering electro tunes have won over every single person here at F*@K! Towers. Like a chainsaw wrapped in velvet this electro pop comes with a delicious sting in its tail. Glossy dreamy vocals drift over throbbing beats and crashing electric guitars. Fans of The Sounds, Blondie and The Gossip get ready to lap this up like the naughty gimps you are. Track two comes with added lip-gloss and varnish in the form of a poppers fuelled remix by gorgeous Essex remixologist 'Kissy Sell Out'. Track 3 is a genius cover of rock hit Jeans On that is so sexy there won't be a pair of jeans left on in any auditorium when it's demo'ed live later this summer. Every track is soooo 'Goldfrapp' it's scary, but we reckon there's enough room in our MP3 players for four or five Goldfrapps before we get bored. And lets face it it's been too long since the last Goldfrapp LP and we're getting itchy feet. Now where's that athletes foot powder...
Released 7 May

Calvin Harris
The Girls Single

He's a bit flamboyant is our Calvin, good looking and stylish too so maybe he worries that people will think he's a little bit 'lavender'. Perhaps with that in mind he's penned a sexy electro-pop follow up to his hit Acceptable In The 80s telling the world what kind of girls he likes. It seems like he likes all sorts, black white, skinny and chubby. He's an equal opportunities lover. Can't wait for LP later this year.
Released 4 June

Siobhan Donaghy
Don't Give it Up Single

If there was ever proof that Siobhan had made the transition from Sugababe to respected and talented solo artist then this single is it. Close your eyes and listen to the haunting bittersweet melody and you could almost be listening to a young Kate Bush.
